From Words to Deeds

- Severn Suzuki

1. But really you are mothers and fathers, brothers and sisters, aunts and uncles - and all of you are ~~some~~ somebody's child.

1) Why does Severn Suzuki ask the delegates to consider themselves as members of a family?

As members of a family we are all connected and the well being of one reflects the well being of another. Though all the creatures of the world don't belong to one species and the world is divided ~~into~~ by walls and borders, we are all, togather and we have one home ie the earth. When calamities strike due to environmental degradation, it affects everyone and even generations to come. Therefore it is our responsibility to work together ~~as~~ a family to save this earth.

2. 'I wonder if they will even exist to my children to see.'

1) What is Severn Suzuki referring to?

Severn Suzuki is referring to the solace of seeing the beautiful animals of different kinds living togather with humans. There should not be any threat of pollution, deforestation and extinction of wild animals. She had dreamed of seeing the great herds of wild animals, jungles and rainforests full of birds and butterflies. Now the speaker is ~~afra~~ terrified of the consequences of air pollution, water pollution, depletion of ozone layer, destruction of natural habitat of animals, desertification etc. She fears that her children and our generations to come will not be able to see the beautiful lively nature full of trees, birds, butterflies etc.

3 'You grown ups say you love us. I challange you please, make your actions reflect your words.'

(a) Why does the speaker say so?

'We can create a fair and better world for everyone - even for the animals. We should work for the welfare of the generations to come. The adults claim that they love children. If they loved them they should protect the earth for future generation. In reality they destroy the world by their actions. It is time they make their actions reflect their words. ~~to~~ makes The adults should work for the safety and survival of children.